Traveling to Orlando

The primary airport for travelers coming to Orlando is Orlando International Airport (MCO), located approximately 10 miles from OCCC. Ranked the seventh busiest airport in the U.S., MCO offers nonstop flights to more than 160 destinations worldwide. As a world-class airport, it serves millions of passengers annually across its three terminals and is the only U.S. airport with an intermodal facility that offers high-speed rail service.

Orlando Sanford International Airport (SFB) is approximately 27 miles from OCCC. Airlines serving SFB are Allegiant, TUI, and ViaAir.

Getting Around Town

Shuttle bus service will run daily from select conference hotels and OCCC. Details about shuttle routes and services will be available in the weeks leading into the event. Once you have arrived in Orlando, there are several options for getting around the city. Here are some quick tips on transportation options around town.

- Taxis, shuttle vans, private car pick-ups and ride-share services such as Uber and Lyft are available just outside the door on the baggage claim level at both Orlando International Airport (MCO) and Orlando Sanford International Airport (SFB).
- Many Orlando hotels and resorts offer complimentary airport shuttles.
- Drivers using Orlando-area toll roads should note the “Exact Change Only” and “Change and Receipts” toll lanes, as well as those marked for use only by vehicles with SunPass and E-Pass transponders. Tollbooths do not accept credit cards, and transponder-only lanes will not accept cash.
